Team names for the Super Eight stage are indicative, based on the top two teams from the Group Stage qualifying.

If these two teams do qualify, they will be seeded in position 1 and 2 as specified, regardless of whether they finish first or second in their group.

For example, if Bangladesh wins Group A and India comes second, for the purposes of the Super Eights, India will still be A1 and Bangladesh will be A2. If for example, Ireland qualifies instead of India, Ireland will become A1.

This formula facilitates ease of logistical operations and provides spectators and television with certainty as to the time and location of team matches.
