TWENTY20 CUP CRICKET IS BACK

All still to play for in final round of games

With one of the quarter-final places in each division of the Twenty20 Cup having been decided, it is a fight for the remaining spots as we head into the final round of games.

Nottinghamshire, Warwickshire and Sussex are already through to the next round after strong showings in the group stage.

In the North Division, second-placed Lancashire take on current holders and third-placed Leicestershire as they battle to take the two points which will see them into the second stage of the competition.

If rain comes into play and points are shared, Lancashire will be through to the quarter-finals but Leicestershire could still scrape through as a best third-place if Yorkshire lose to Derbyshire.

The Mid/West/Wales Division is even tighter, with Gloucestershire, Northamptonshire and Worcestershire all vying for that important second spot.

However, none of those three teams are playing each other, so they will all have to rely on other results going their way in order to progress.

Providing there is no rain, Gloucestershire are currently looking most likely to succeed as they are one point above each of the other two teams, with one more win, and are set to take on Glamorgan who have a poor record in the competition.

The South Division sees Surrey take on Kent as they bid to reach their fifth successive finals day.

Both teams could theoretically make it into the quarter-finals, but if points are shared and Middlesex beat Essex, then Surrey will go through in second place with most wins from the group stages.

Surrey will be looking towards their spinners with leading wicket-taker in the competition Nayan Doshi and the man with the most wickets this season Chris Schofield both in their ranks. They also have the second highest run-scorer in Mark Ramprakash who will be hoping to add to his tally of 232 runs in seven games.
